In gratitude for his many years of devoted service to Wake Forest College, THE HOWLER of 1957 is dedicated to Dr. William E. Speas.

Fifty years ago, in the spring sunshine of the magnolia-studded campus of Wake Forest College, he received his B.A. degree, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate. He later received the M.A. from The Johns Hopkins University, and then the Ph.D. from Cornell.

The influence of Dr. Speas has been far-reaching in the realm of physics, including a past presidency of the North Carolina Academy of Science, but he is best known to students and alumni as one of the most quoted professors of all time. Though a scholar of unusual ability, he maintains an understanding of students and a kinship with them in study that have become his trademark.

Continually youthful in spirit, Dr. Speas truly seems to gain as much enjoyment from each lecture demonstration and lah experiment as his students, chuckling in his unforgettable manner when he finishes the demonstration.

He has long been an advocate of a balanced program for Wake Forest, stressing, among other things, the importance of cultivation of the fine arts. Incidentally, his three daughters, Alice, Melinda, and Frances, are all accomplished musicians.

It is to men such as him that Wake Forest owes her place of greatness in the educational world of today, and it is with a true spirit of tribute that we congratulate Dr. William E. Speas on his thirty-seven years of ourstanding work here. We feel honored to have known him.

O THE STUDENTS of Wake Forest who converged upon a campus still wearing its figurative price tags and cellophane covers, "From the forest of Wike to the hills of Forsyth" hecame a familiar slogan, The 1957 Howler is a living tableau of what these students saw and what they did in a year of new beginnings. The greater number of these students had spent a year or more exploring the forest of Wike, and now they bravely encamped upon the Forsythian hills—ready to fight the enemy of College traditions, whether the foe was real or imaginary. As the year rolled by, the collegiate warriors laid down their weapons and joined the ranks of those students

I had down their weapons and joined the ranks of those students who either did not know enough of the old college to fight or, who looked at the problems of removal realistically and acted accordingly.

For certain, the year was as much one of adjustment as the former had been one of preparation. And aside from personal adjustments common to all college students, there were those matters pertaining to faculty and administration. The "one big happy family" had increased tremendously, so the older children had to make way for the younger and to teach them by the precepts of experience. There were adjustments to the many and varied facilities which the old campus could not afford; and there were adjustments to the town of Winston-Salem, to the "modified Georgian" campus, even to the weather. But most of the children and most of their playhouse came out unseathed from the experience, and both student and campus finally felt as if each belonged to the other.

To take one final look at this first year, the staff has visited each of the buildings on campus and has looked them over inside and out. Therefore, from the steeple of Wait Chapel, the cupola of Z. Smith Reynolds Library, the balconies of Reynolda Hall, and the innumerable stairways running up and down the entire campus, the scene unfolds.

But because the College is certainly more than a mere group of buildings—and fortunately less than some untouchable Utopia—this volume seeks to capture from the bonds of time and space some of the spirit that is still Wake Forest and will ever continue to be.

THEWAKE FOREST FLAME

Wake Forest men were talking of the Dead In terms of light. "Our paths were dim," they said,

"And we were prone to stumble day by day Fill our preceptors pointed out the way,

Then lifted high their lamps that we might find. And use the boundless riches of the mind.

And heart and soul—nor were content to stop But burned their lamps down to the oil's last drop.

That faint spark we possessed when first we came Grew, with their help, into a constant flame

Wake Forest spirit! Loyalty aglow! These valiant ones embodied both, and so

God grant our flame makes bright the path ahead, Continuing the radiance they spread!"

Dr. George Washington Paschal, 87, author of the three-volume History of Wake Forest College and Greek professor from 1896 to 1940, died June 13, 1956. At various times he had also been college registrar and director of athletics.

In 1940 he "retired" and "began work." He had four books published and completed the manuscripts for three more. A man who wrote so extensively, who attended all the college's athletic events, who helped found the Wake Forest chapter of Phi Bera Kappa, and who (at one time) edited the Biblical Recorder naturally caused all those around him to marvel that he found the time and energy to do so much.

Dr. C. Chilton Pearson, Professor Emeritus of Social Sciences, retired in 1952 after thirty-six years of loyal service to the school. He has been described as "the best scholar ever at Wake Forest" and as having a "brilliant, analytical mind." His concise thinking and his "ability to separate significant matters from unimportant details" influenced both faculty and students.

Versatile in many respects, he developed the Social Science Department of the school, headed the first fraternity council, led in establishing the book store, and served as chairman of the faculty committee on athletics. Dr. "Skinny" Pearson died November 26, 1956. He remains "a man to be remembered."

The man who had probably taught more law students than any other teacher in North Carolina, Professor Edgar W. Timberlake, died January 19, 1957, at his home in Wake Forest. Fifty of his seventy-five years had been spent in the service of the College.

Nicknamed "Toe" by his students, he was considered an authority on real property law and legal ethics. He tried to make law as simple as possible, and always put his students at ease. When a correct answer was given in class, he would exclaim, "Absolutely correct!" Aside from teaching law, he was dean of the college from 1919 to 1922, a superintendent of the Sunday school, member of the City Council, a Mason and a Shriner.

PRESIDENT TRIBBLE

Ten years of planning, saving, compromising, and patient waiting were culminated in the removal of Wake Forest College from Wake to Forsyth County. The driving force behind our arrival here was none other than President Tribble. From the time he entered office, succeeding Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, to the registration of the summer session, 1956, he gave of his time, energy, and efforts to make this idea a reality. The taxing burden of moving has finally been lifted from his shoulders. The school is now here in Winston-Salem and classes are in session. During the years of planning, the personality of Dr. Tribble permeated the campus, affecting every phase of campus life with its spirit of rugged determination to complete a task once begun. This new campus is a constant symbol of his unselfish efforts to realize the dream that has been so long in the hearts of the faculty, students, and Southern Baptists. Now the administrative problems arising will be concerned with the continued growth and expansion of the new campus. As the new problems are met and solved, President Tribble can look back and find inspiration in having accomplished a job unique in North Carolina collegiate history.

WOMAN'S GOVERNMENT

All undergraduate women of the Wake Forest student family are members of the Woman's Government Association, more popularly known as W.G.A. The Executive Board of W.G.A. is made up of thirteen girls nominated and elected by the coeds. For the second consecutive year, it served as the Women's Honor Council as well as the Executive Board, which enforces the regulations pertaining to the coeds' campus life.

The Social Standards Committee of W.G.A. seeks to uphold the high standards of conduct and to plan a well-balanced social program.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

From all sections of Student Government appeared the desire to accomplish something of value for the students they represented. Despite obstacles that constantly reared their ugly heads, the member groups worked toward an end of continuing the best standards of Student Government.

President of the Student Body Dave Hirano worked with Bill Starling, Dennie Baxter, and David Hughes in trying to co-ordinate the activities of their groups into a unity of purpose.

Hirano and other campus leaders were successful in getting student body co-operation to avert a Carolina-Wake Forest football game riot. College representatives attended the State Student Legislature. And Honor Councils upheld the tradition of the Honor System.

Most of the effort was spent in dealing with the complaints of students and faculty. Time was consumed in either routine business or in special investigations. More than ever, it was a "thankless task."

Old Gold and Black

There were new offices for the Old Gold and Black staffers to haunt this year, new gripes to write ahout, and new "thrillers" to report. One thing was not new—that persistent stamina which all newspaper workers seem to possess was still present, that undying energy which makes possible the All-American rating the paper has so often won in past years lived on. The paper faithfully covered the campus just as the magnolias used to do.

Moving into its forty-first year of keeping students informed on the latest Deacon doings, the paper maintained the high standards for which it is noted. Perhaps the person most responsible for its achievements this year was Lloyd Preslar, the editor. He and his hard-working staff spent many hours, often long into the night, pounding out the stories which students rushed to read on Monday mornings. While the ink was still wet on the current issue, the weekly round of putting out the next edition would start, and the staff once again dismissed that hoped-for eight-hours' sleep with a shrug.

The setting has changed, the printer is different, but The Student remains to keep fun, fiction, and features circulating at Wake Forest. In spite of the extra burden of new surroundings, seven issues were produced to set a new record.

As school closes in the spring, Wake Forest students not only look forward to a diploma, or a vacation, but they also expect another symbol of the year's completion. This expectation is fulfilled in each student's acquisition of his copy of The Howler. The yearhook is one of the most treasured Wake Forest traditions. What other collection of pictures, captions, and stories could recall so many memories?

The yearbook does not "just grow," as Topsy says. It is the result of long hours of planning, headaches over layout, frantic rush for advertisements, panicky scheduling of pictures, midnight-oil copy-editing, and meticulous typing. Early in the fall the campaign for Howler Help begins. Throughout the staff meetings, individual responsibility to this student project is stressed. The "Demon Deacon" taskmaster of Howler production forces sacrifices of leisurely week ends as well as entertaining IV programs, but these demands are justified. The staff needs no more reward than is offered when a student eagerly examines his brand-new Howler and voices approval and admiration for a job well done.

THE VOICE OF WAKE FOREST

Although radio station WFDD was uprooted from its small green shack a block from the old Wake Forest earnpus and tucked away in a second-story corner of Reynolda Hall in the heart of the new campus, the "Voice of Wake Forest" continued to ride the air waves for listening students. Transmitting difficulties forced the station into silence for almost three months, however, in spite of the pre-move preparations made on the old campus and the installment of equipment in the station's three new sound proof studios by the staff prior to school's opening in the fall. The problem was finally solved by placing transmitters in the college dormitories—the only location where most of the station's programs can be picked up. One of WFDD's most popular shows, "Deaconlight Serenade," has a wider receiving area because it is broadcast by local radio station WAIR through WFDD facilities.

With WFDD operating on an increased budget, station manager Tommy Bunn and business manager Forrest Roberts have been able to improve the station's equipment. Using its two recently purchased tape recorders, WFDD now sends the "Voice of WFC" throughout North Carolina by supplying recordings of campus life to radio stations all over the State.

RHO TAU SIGMA HONORS "THE VOICES"

Rho Tau Sigma appeared first on the Wake Forest campus in the spring of 1956 to honor the campus radio enthusiasts. The chapter, one of the first to be formed in the nation, immediately elected Raleigh's Jimmy Capps, popular disc jockey of "Our Best to You," as an honorary member of the local group. The infant organization had the handicap of innumerable problems involved in re-locating the station in the Winston area. Members were kept busy as they worked against many difficulties trying to meet the pleas of eager students and get WFDD on the air once again.

The fraternity functions to give its members a broader understanding of commercial radio operation with the immediate goal of improving local radio conditions. In addition, the members gained information and insight into the future of radio and the career possibilities it affords.

BEHIND PUBLICATIONS

The lights burn late in five rooms of Reynolda Hall, which, in student lingo, are called "Pub Row." Here Wake Forest writers and radio men work diligently to provide the student body with news, literature, entertainment, and student opinion.

A publications board made up of the editors and business managers of Tin Howitin, Old Gold and Black, and The Student and the station manager of WFDD set the standards for the pens and voices of the students.

Working with the staffs of the publications and radio station is a faculty board. Dr. Folk advises the frenzied staff of Old Gold and Black, while Dr. Wilson soothes and counsels the Howlers. The "Voices of Wake Forest" owe their rounded tones to the tutelage of Professors Shirley and Walton, and Dr. Smiley is always available for consultation with the Student staff.

The members of pub board are Lloyd Preslar and John Wagster of Old Gold and Black; Dottie Braddock, Charles Richards, and Dale Holland of the Student, Doug Graham, Kitty Booth, and Dave Welton of the Howeek; Tommy Bunn and Forest Roberts of WFDD.

Publications Advisors are, Professors Wilson, Shirley, Folk, Walton, and Smiley,

Members of Publications Board are Bunn, Richards, Preslar, Graham, and Booth.

These are the members of the Alpha Kappa Psi Business Fraterity.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI: FIRST IN ACADEMIC STANDING

The Gamma Delta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternty has been active since 1950. The Wake Forest chapter boasts a membership of forty students enrolled in the School of Business, and it ranks first in academic standing over the hundred other chapters in the country. With Fstus White presiding over this year's functions, the fraternity has gone a long way towards fulfilling its purposes of promoting public interest in business mechanics, fostering research in commerce, and advancing courses leading to a degree in business. The group left campus to make overnight tours of industries in Charlotte and the Old Gold tobaceo factory in Greensboro.

During April members toured government installations and business firms of Norfolk, Virginia. As a gift to the college, the chapter gave two glass-enclosed bulletin boards for student and faculty use. The new chapter room in the basement of Northwest dornitory has been the center of the group's activities.

Vialon Smith and Estus White attended the National Convention in Detroit where Harlowe Curriec, president of General Motors, was initiated as an honorary member.

DELTA SIGMA PI: TOURS ARE HIGHLIGHT OF YEAR

Gamma Nu is the local chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, the national business fraternity. Since its establishment in 1950, the chapter has strived to aid alumni to secure better positions and more opportunities in the business world. The "Detasig," the national fraternity's publication, is instrumental in this service, rendering invaluable aid to its subscribers.

These future businessmen have taken trips this year to Burlington Mills and Sears Roebuek and Company in Greensboro. Other projects during the year included trips to Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and Western Fleettre in Winston-Salem. Among visiting speakers at the regular meetings this year were John Wattington, President of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., and Dr. Richards of the Political Science Department. J. L. Memory, Jr., and Mr. Frank O'Stein, Vice-President of the First National Bank of Winston-Salem, also talked to the group.

This year the fraternity elected Thomas L. Teague to serve as president. Other officers were George M. McDaniel, Jr., secretary; William G. Starling, first vice-president; Joe Crump, second vice-president; and Joe N. Wallwork, treasurer.

KAPPA MU EPSILON

Seated here are members of Kappa Mn Epsilon honorary mathematical fraterinty. Joanne Mc Millan served as president. Dr. Gentry is their advisor.

Kappa Mu Ipsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, under the leadership of JoAnne McMillan, functioned in 1956-1957 as one of the most active organizations of its type on campus. Participation was encouraged by having senior members conduct the programs with interest discussions from their own knowledge. A highlight of the year, socially speaking, was the Christmas party at Forsyth Fish Camp, where food and fun reigned in the festivities. Making a real contribution to the college, the fraternity presented the library with a book series, The World of Mathematics, in honor of Professor "Pop" Carroll, former beloved friend and teacher of many of the members.

DELTA KAPPA NU THE BUSINESS BRAINS

Delta Kappa Nu, the local business fraternity for coeds, was organized for those girls who plan to obtain either a major or a minor from the Wake Forest School of Business.

The girls have made a fine beginning on the new campus under the leadership of their president, Ann Kitchin. The regular meetings featured speakers from various local business concerns. Particularly memorable was the talk given by a representative from Wachovia Bank and Trust Company. Members enjoyed several informal parties during the year.

With Miss Joyce Bateman as adviser, Delta Kappa Nu sponsored a dictaphone class during second semester. Invited to join were all those interested in the operation of this machine.

Officers of Delta Kappa Nu are: Beth Hurt, Ann Kitchin, Jo Butler.

Members of Delta Kappa Nu are: Weaver, Hawkins, Brown, Kuchin, Speaker, Miss Joyce Bateman, Butler, Adams, Rice, Holfield, Ashley, Hurt.

Robert Entzgerald, president of Philomathesian Society

Philomathesian

One of the oldest traditions of Wake Forest College is the literary society. Through the years the two societies have been rivals in all phases of public speaking from debate to poetry readings.

Robert Fitzgerald assumed his duties as the first president of the Philomathesian Literary Society on the new campus. The first vice-president and program chairman was Charles Richards.

At the bi-monthly meetings, members heard such guest speakers as Dr. David Smiley in a review of literature. A dual purpose of gaining a broader view of literary and musical topics and of developing better speaking abilities was accomplished through member participation on programs.

The big features of the year were the speaking contests between the Phi's and the Eu's for the coveted cup. Just before summer vacation, Phi members held their spring banquet and aired their after-dinner speaking accomplishments.

Here at a Philomathesian Society meeting plans are made to win back the coveted trophy.

Euzelian

Euzelian Literary Society, older of the two literary groups, met every other Wednesday night to give opportunities to all interested in forensics. Such student-planned programs as mock debates, informal discussions, dramatic readings, and extemporaneous speaking stimulated greater interest in the literary fields. Highlights of the year's activities were the two Founder's Day meets, which brought together the Eu's and their old-time rivals, the Phi's, in verbal battles for individual and society awards. During the fall, the Eu's won the Society Trophy for the second straight time. Larry Williams was the first semester president, and Sam Harvey presided during the spring semester.

SENIORS: FIRST CLASS TO GRADUATE FROM NEW CAMPUS

The Senior Class did not rest on its laurels for being the first class to graduate from the new campus; they busied themselves immediately and gave the students fun and food at the Fall Carnival. In the spring they made themselves guests of honor at several "Exclusively Senior's" parties. When the time came for electing the Ten Outstanding Seniors, it was indeed difficult to narrow the list. The Class of '57 gave more than the traditional gift to the school—they gave their leadership, friendship, and scholastic achievement for four years.

Dr. Henry Stroupe, Chairman of History Department,

FACULTY: A WORLD OF BOOKS AT THEIR FINGERTIPS

English Department are, seated, Jones, Wood, Sninggs, Avenik, Standing, Walton, Kennon, Shirley, Folk, Howeren, Brown, Diske, and Wilson.

Members of the History Department are, first row. Jumper, Smiley. Second row. Stroupe, Clonts, Perry. Third row. Fearus, Huckaby, Tillett.

The English Department, under the direction of Dr. Broadus Jones, is certainly one of the most populated, if not popular, departments on the campus. Through its doors pass many eager English majors, as well as reductant inductees to the basic required courses. This year many new professors joined the enlarged English staff. Upon entering the department, students are magically transformed into Canterbury pilgrims. Shakespearean spectators, or critics of Whitman philosophy. Themes and term papers are promptly administered, though not so eagerly completed. Would-be writers join the ranks of amateur journalists and turn out lines of carefully typed copy. Trying to diagram their difficulties in advanced grammar are future English teachers.

Trudging up flights of steps to the fourth floor of the Library, one finds himself suddenly balancing in mid-air on a narrow "catwalk." Venturing across the structure, one comes to the doors of two of the busiest offices on campus. One of them could be called a main public relations agency for the college. This is none other than Professor Shirley's office from which he directs the Wake Forest Debate Team, which has proudly matched its wits with students from Boston to Miami. In the other office one would probably find notices of try-outs, rehearsals, and committee meetings. This office serves as the center of activity for College Theater productions. Speech and dramatics offer practical experiences in the fields of public speaking and development of creative arts. Those acquainted with the department have even coined such motroes as "Remember the Fox" (Speech 55) and "The play's the thing" (Speech 57). Future play directors and New York producers learn the "ropes" through first hand experiences in play direction and production in their Theater courses under Professor Walton.

Elsewhere in the Library, activities are tagged with dates (strictly historical) and "mapped out" in bold colors. The History Department attracts many majors in both history and political science. This aspect of the college curriculum provides unequalled opportunities for parallel reading plus ways to capture gems of wisdom through student reporting. The department, under the supervision of Dr. Henry Stroupe, added to its faculty new professors and new courses this year. Classes in the recently installed Russian History course were filled to overflowing both semesters. Other courses covered the range of human accomplishments from the period of Mesoporamian civilization to World War II and the post-war era.

BOOKS, LANGUAGES, AND THE PEOPLE WHO USE THEM

Wake Forest's "Tower of Babel" is also located in the Library Building. Sounds of French, Spanish, and guttural German, plus Southern accents, issue from the classrooms of the Modern Language Department, headed by Dr. Harold D. Parcell. Courses in grammar, literature, and conversation are offered to all students—those who are just beginners all the way up to those who are proficient enough to work as interpreters for the United Nations.

The Classical Language Department, under the direction of Dr. Cronje B. Earp, is very helpful to those young men on campus known as "Greeks." The study of Greek has proved invaluable to them in identifying their own fraternity sections. The works of Caesar and Livy live again in that language which only the unlearned call "dead."

Sixty-five student workers assist the regular library staff in the three service centers of the new library—Circulation, Periodicals, and Reserve. As the nine moving vans, containing 4,500 boxes of books, slowly rolled up to the new campus, the staff, made up of both old and new members, faced a mammoth job of unpacking, sorting, and cataloguing. Under the able direction of Mr. Carlton Prince West, the chief librarian, the library was ready for use by the time the summer session began.

Away from the bustle and noise of the main eampus, students pursued their quest for knowledge in the well-lighted, pleasant surroundings of the four reading rooms. Soundproof earrells in the stacks provided space for individual research. Many books will be added as the years pass. Perhaps some day the stacks will be filled.

SELECT FEW ARE HONORED BY WHO'S WHO, OMICRON

Lach year Wake Forest recognizes its student leaders by conferring upon them membership in the national organization Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. This fall twenty-four upperclassmen were elected for their ourstanding achievements in publications, arhiticis, religious organizations, student government, and scholarship. To obtain membership in Who's Who is not casy, because it is opened only to those who have given their time, interest, and orthusiasm to wholehearted participation in college life.

Iwice this year the wooden key of ODK appeared in front of the chapel. On the key were placed the names of men who had proved themselves worthy of recognition by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity. Made up of only three per cent of the male enrollment, the fraternity places emphasis upon the development of the well-rounded man, both as a present member of his college community and as a prospective contributor to a better society. Bruce McDamel was president for the year

DELTA KAPPA, PHI BETA KAPPA, AND TASSELS

A very impressive initiation service is held each spring in which a small percentage of the senior class is inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary scholastic fraternity. This is perhaps the most gratifying and the most treasured reward a student can achieve in his college career. Lach member is presented a small key containing the letters "PBK." Upon receiving their keys, the initiates pledge loyalty to the society's distinguishing principles. I riendship, Morality and Laterature.

Wake Forest's leading ladies are honored each year by being tapped for membership in Tassels, the sister organization on campus of ODK. Chosen from four per cent of the female matriculates, these women are outstanding in leadership, scholarship, and character. New members are chosen according to a point system for their extra-curricular activities, as well as their scholastic standing.

Two formal initiation services were held this year as the newly tapped members were brought into the inner circle

YOUNG DEMOCRATS CLUB

The Young Democrats Club had two joint meetings with the local County Club this year, with approximately 100 people attending. Special guests from the surrounding County Clubs and representatives from various college clubs in the state were invited to attend these meetings. Mr. Terry Sanford, former State Senator and now State Y.D.C. President, spoke to the group at the February dinner meeting. At the second joint dinner meeting held in the spring, a panel discussion concerning "What happened in November? How and What we must do in the future" was featured. The Wake Forest club president Bob Riddle moderated this controversial discussion.

Last year's Wake Forest's Y.D.C. president, Johnny Ray Hendren, was honored at the organization's state convention by being elected State Secretary. Johnny Ray has been active in the Wake Forest chapter since his freshman year and has served on many state-wide Y.D.C. committees. Now, as a senior in Law School, he puts aside the legal books to keep minutes of all the state-wide executive committee meetings and to keep all presidents of over 100 Y.D.C.'s in North Carolina up to date on their duries and on happenings within the State Y.D.C. serup.

HOUSE PRESIDENTS, SOCIAL STANDARDS ENRICH CO-ED LIFE

Under the chairmanship of Dee Hughes, the Social Standards Committee functioned to provide the cocds with a well-rounded and pleasurable year. Wake Forest's female counterparts of L.F.C. gave the girls their leap-year "big chance" at the Christmas dance—one of those affairs where everybody had a "ball." Dick Collins and his orchestra were featured at the event, which was held in the ballroom of the Robert E. Lee Hotel. All girls drew names to determine whose spirits they would secretly try to boost during exam week. They played "Miss Hush," surprising their sister cocds with everything from bubble gum to self-composed poetry. In February, the committee sponsored a reception honoring the faculty.

Four capable coeds played the combined roles of mother, friend, hostess, counselor, and judge as they performed the difficult tasks of house presidents. Familiar pleas were: "What will I ever tell my folks, Lynne"; "When! You're here, Phillip Ann. I need a permission shp"; "But what'll I do mow, Carol?"; "Kitty, do we have to....?"

LANCUAGE HONORARIES: SIGMA PI ALPHA, ETA SIGMA PHI

Those students who prove themselves outstanding in the French, Spanish, and German languages have the opportunity of becoming members of the modern language fraterinty, Sigma Pi Alpha. Their meetings are planned around programs which give members a better outlook and knowledge of the people, customs, and languages of the countries which interest rhem. This year I sther Seay served as president of the society.

Beta fora chapter of the national classical language honorary fraternity, Eta Sigma Phi, honors those upper-classmen who have excelled in the study of Larin and Greek. New members were tapped in the spring and initiated in a formal ceremony. The old members honored the initiates at an informal out-of-doors party. C. J. Benner was elected to serve as president of the society, and Dr. Cronje B. Earp was the faculty adviser.

PHI ALPHA THETA

With a chapter organized on this campus only last spring, Phi Alpha Theta is making its first appearance among the annals of Wake Forest College honorary societies. The Epsilon Sigma chapter of Phi Alpha Theta was chartered to recognize Wake Forest students who excel in the field of history. The chapter grew this year with the formal initiation of more new historians. Walt Barge presided over the group, and Mr. Wayland Jones was the faculty adviser.

FUTURE TEACHERS

Future Teachers of America is the professional club on campus for those students who are planning careers in education. It was first organized on the Wake campus in 1954. The members heard outstanding educational leaders of North Carolina speak. The programs were designed to give members more insight into the opportunities afforded them in their future careers. This year Johnny Nettles presided, and Dr. Herman Preseren was adviser.

F.T.A. members are, scated. Thomas, Teachey, May, Haywood, Johnson, Weathers, Rice, Bordesiux, Chamblee. Back. Woodlief, Receer, Kutchin, Cornwell, Huskey, Nettles, Dilthey.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Meeting at intervals throughout the year, Pi Kappa Delta, the honorary forensic society on campus, is composed of students who have shown themselves outstanding in inter-collegiate oratory or debare. This year, with David Hughes as president and Professor Franklin Shirley as adviser, the society sponsored the Eighth Annual Novice Debate Tournament on campus for new debaters and assisted the Debate Team in other tournaments. All activities were planned with the society's purpose of stimulating progress in and furthering the interest of inter-collegiate speech activities firmly in mind.

On April 14th, Professor Shirley and several of the society's members attended the National Pi Kappa Delta Convention in Brooking, South Dakota.

DEBATE TEAM

Wake Forest's Debate Team brought prestige and renown to the school as it traveled from Miami to Dartmouth, Varsity member of the team, David Hughes, was selected as the top debater at the Ninth Annual Cross-Examination Tournament held at the University of Pattsburgh in December, David competed against more than 200 top debaters from all over the nation and earned the highest rating any debater has received in history of that tournament. Hughes also won the highest individual debating award at the First Annual Dixie Classics Tournament, which was held here on campus.

In order to train freshmen debaters, the debate fraterinty sponsored a Novice Debate Tournament in October. Participating in all of the major inter-collegiate tournaments in the East, the team, minus many of its more experienced members, made a good showing and gave its freshmen members a chance to compete with seasoned debaters.

Wake Forest was host to the annual Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament in March, during which the team debated against the same schools our athletic teams competed against in a different way.

ORIENTATION COMMITTEE WHO WAS GREENEST?

"Just shoot them a dose of that ole Wake Forest spirit, and that's all they'll need": these were the essential words of advice given to the Orientation Committee to help them in their tremendous job, Even the committee felt like D.P.'s when first arriving on the new campus after the westward move, which made freshmen and transfers of us all. But the sight of a few old faces and friends and one rousing stanza of "Oh Here's to Wake Forest" and the committee was at home again, ready to welcome the onrush of new students. Becoming patient parents of the Deacon "family," they attempted to answer the flood of questions about school codes and procedure and to relate the facts of life at college. Although it was hard keeping pace with the freshmen, the committee successfully whirled them through a week of "gettin' to know you's," honor, friendliness, indoctrination speeches, conferences, and I.Q. tests. As customary, the schedule was highlighted by a square dance in the gym and a reception for the purpose of introducing the faculty to their new students. The week was climaxed by an organ recital in the Chapel. Finally they were ready for the arrival of the "Old-Timers" and a mass assimilation process began.

"THE INNOCENTS"

The Wike Forest College Thearer seison opened with William Archibald's suspense drama "The Innocents," an artiful production which called for every onnce of talent the cast of four could render. Judging from the audience's approval, the east and erew succeeded in their first experiment in arena work. The production was more than the creation of a supernatural illusion. and ghost story. The quality of presentation was such that the original complexity of character was retained, allowing for a diversity of psychological interpretation

"ANTIGONE" MODERN AND IN THE ROUND

The Arena Theater attracts Wake Forest students whose enthusiasm for stage productions, heightened imaginations, and willingness to work contribute to the successful productions such as were evident in the past year.

It was a new experience for the casts and crews of the College Theater to work in a theater-in-the-round. This form offered an opportunity for experimentation in a difficult stage medium. The theater was successful in presenting the necessary intimacy while sustaining proper aesthetic distance. The Arena Theater gave the director new horizons in which to create theatrical illusion, or a willing acceptance as real of a perception that does not correspond with reality. Since the actors had little or no scenery and props to assist development of characterization, it was necessary that the acting be especially convincing and dynamic. Lighting and makeup also had to be adapted to suit the new medium. The arena style stage is probably the legitimate theater's only method of putting the audience in the laps of the actors, a relationship tried by Cinerama or Todd-A-O on the movie screens.

The director fulfilled the major prerequisite for arena style directing, use of free play of imagination, in the outstanding production of "Antigone," an adaptation of Sophoeles' tragedy. In order to emphasize the timeless meaning of the 2,400-year-old play, "Antigone" was presented on a three-tiered platform unburdened by scenery and props; the actors themselves were costumed in formal evening attire to heighten the desired effect. Cast in the title role was Marjorie Thomas; King Creon, the male lead, was portraved by Tollnert Wilkinson.

Enthusiasm for the theater prompted the production of more plays than had been previously attempted. An innovation for Wake Forest audiences was the spring presentation of a musical comedy, "Pajama Game." This musical incorporated only one of the phases of draina that was represented on the theater calendar for 1956-57. A combination of classic and modern draina completed the schedule of productions: "The Innocents," "Antigone," and "The Caine Mutriny Court Marrial."

"You are too late, when you saw me this morning, I had just finished burying him.

11. Commander Queeq, being questioned by defense attorney. 11. Greenwald deduces, "Yes, Unprimanded him; it took me about two seconds, Em not in the habit of dwalling on such things."

"THE CAINE MUTINY"

The College Theater's third production of the year was "The Came Muriny Court Martial" by Herman Wouk who manipulated his characters with profound desterity to enthrall play-goers with a wonderful example of the inter and intra-personal relations of different personality types in a unique and delicare situation.

The all-male east was led by I ddie Hudson as the defense arrorner Barney Greenwald. Gil Whedbee portraving Challee, an intelligent but uninformed prosecutor, and Bob. Eilley as the infortunate Captain Queeg, a paramoid caught up in the strange trial. The production crew was unique, as it was made up completely of the fairer sex.

Reynolda Hall at Night.

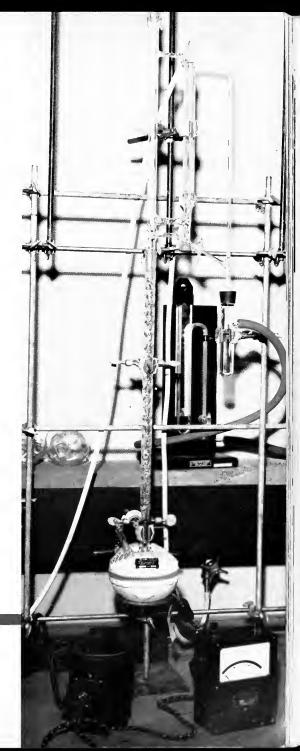

One of the more difficult operations of the entire removal program was the resettlement of chemistry, physics, and biology into their respective positions in the science building. Although some of the dreamed-of facilities are built-in conveniences in the new quarters, many of the pieces of equipment seen throughout the building are veterans of previous years of service, well-remembered from days gone by. Biology professors have forsaken their specimenhunting grounds around Wake County, and are searching the area for replacements, as well as listing and classifying the trees around us.

To meet the increased enrollment in the sciences, several members have been added to their faculties. Biology presents Dr. R. L. Wyatt and Dr. J. E. Davis, chemistry, Dr. P. J. Hamrick; and physics, Dr. L. A. Hall, returning to his alma mater. Dr. T. J. Turner has recently undertaken the chairmanship of the Department of Physics.

As routines and prodecures become established several members of the science faculties are resuming or beginning research projects, one of the most interesting aspects of teaching in a science field. Dr. Turner is continuing his work in solid-state physics, Dr. Hamrick and Dr. Miller each have a project in organic chemistry, and Dr. Wyatt and Dr. Allen are doing biological research.

Biology Department: Drs. Elton Cocke, John Davis, O. C. Bradbury, Grady Britt, Raymond Wyatt, Charles Allen.

BETA BETA BETA

Beta Beta Beta, the honorary biology fraternity, has approximately thirty-four members. With Dr. E. C. Cocke as their adviser, they were busy first semester getting settled on the new campus. In the spring the Wake Forest Tri-Betes played host to the District Beta Beta Beta Convention.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

Alpha Epsilon Delta is the honorary fraternity for outstanding pre-medical students. This year they sponsored a chest x-ray unit and a blood bank and held the National Pre-medical-Pre-dental Convention here on campus. Dr. Bradbury is the adviser.

GAMMA SIGMA EPSILON

Every year those students who have painstakingly labored over hot bunsen burners and smelly test tubes are honored by being tapped for Gamma Sigma Epsilon, the honorary chemistry fraternity. Harolyn King presided over the bi-monthly meetings, which featured lecturers from various colleges.

PHYSICS HONOR SOCIETY

Students who have distinguished themselves in the Physics Department are initiated each year into the Wake Forest Physics Honor Society. The society, with Bill Walker as president, has as its aim the establishment of a chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics fraternity. Dr. Turner is adviser.

SCIENCE FACILITIES IMPROVED

The sciences at Wake Forest occupy a building on the southwest corner of the campus. Originally planned for the chemistry department, the building has proved inadequate in the first year of use.

Modern laboratories, beautiful classrooms, and an air of efficiency characterize this corner of the campus. The laboratories are equipped with comfortable furniture and spacious storage facilities. A large lecture-type auditorium occupies the center of the building and provides a place for group lectures and motion pictures. The physics laboratories are located on the ground floor; classrooms, biology and chemistry laboratories are on the first floor; a science library, a meeting hall for science fraternities and faculty offices are on the second floor.

Until buildings are completed to house the physics and biology departments, all three sciences will continue in cramped quarters.

THIRD YEAR LAW

The dreams of boyhood are almost a reality as the third year law students approach the exam to end all exams their bar examination. Each case has been briefed with an eye to the future, for there is the determining possibility that any ease might appear on the bar or might influence the outcome of a future decision. Thus, the third year is more than just a cramming session; and the pure art of learning is no light matter. Now is the time each must determine individually the responsibilities of his chosen profession; and Iustice is no longer a word to use lightly, but a thing to be wrestled with in carnest.

Third year students Sam Johnson, A. A. Coutras, and Edgar Bain prepared to prove the adage, "Practice makes perfect," as they represented Wake Forest in the Regional Moot Court contest which convened here in November.

The Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity captured the scholarship trophy for the tenth time in ten years and placed it triumphantly in the new Ruffin Inn. A stag "lemonade" bust was staged for the first year students. At the October dinner meeting Judge Hubert Olive spoke on "Legal Ethics," "Trial Tactics in Criminal Cases" was the topic of Mr. Frederick Hutchins at the November meeting. The year was crowded with Saturday night socials, which the Wives' Club was responsible for decorations and refreshments; the winning of the Independent League football championship; and, of course, "the pulling down of the books!"

Phi Alpha Delta, one of the two legal fraternities, packed up its books and moved from the quiet surroundings of the legal corner at Wake Forest to Archie's Firecracker Blvd. This year Johnny Ray Hendren served as president of the Edgar Timberlake Chapter. The PAD's played host to the District Fraternity Conclave held here in Winston-Salem, and two members of the chapter won top offices—Jeff Batts being elected District Justice, and Tom Cherry, District Treasurer. Members entertained "prospectives" at smokers and held a workshop for the new men.

FACULTY: THEY INSPIRE

Housed in Wingate Hall are the Philosophy and Psychology Department, the Religion Department, the Music Department, and the B.S.U. offices. Perhaps this is the building most frequently visited by the majority of students. Downstairs is the Paul Price Davis Memorial Chapel, which is used constantly by different religious groups for vespers, morning watches, and special services. Sounds of scales and exercises being sung and played drift down the hall from the practice rooms and into the B.S.U. office where Ed Christman directs the activities of this organization and is a friend and counselor to many students. In the next office Dr. Glenn Blackburn tackles the many tasks incumbent upon a college chaplain. Even on Sundays, Wingate is buzzing with Sunday School classes and B.T.U. groups.

RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE IN STUDENTS' LIFE

The Baprist Student Union is the great co-ordinating force on the Wake Forest eampus, its mechanical hands clicking quietly and effectively behind various spiritual, intellectual and social activities. Those who devote time, energy, and loyalty to the phases of the B.S.U. movement are working toward a collegiate program for the fullest student benefit and interest possible. Foremost, the B.S.U. is the religious co-ordinator. In addition to attending special morning meditations preceding Thanksgiving and Christmas, students were given the opportunity to draw aside after a possibly chaotic day for a period of meditation at Evening Vespers. These services were planned and presented this year by a committee headed by Dave Hirano. Teams piled into the wagon and took off in all directions for week-end church revivals, where students sang, preached, entertained and spread Baptist love and college spirit. Through other channels such as the inviting Y.W.A. supper meetings and the activities of the Religious Education Club, the B.S.U. reached its fingers of spiritual growth.

"You're Here—What Now?" was the theme of discussion for the first campuswide supper forum held in the Magnolia Room. A later forum was held in connection with the issues of the national presidential election. A special service for the students was the Katch All Kalendar, presenting the month's activities. Students listened to out-of-town football games with as much enthusiasm as if they were in the stadium during the "Listen" parties staged in the TV lounge. Heralding the approach of the Christmas season, B.S.U.'ers caroled the campus and faculty row. Soon after, in anticipation of exams, they celebrated with a "Schizophrantic" costume party.

The "brain trust" of all this—and more—activity was the executive council, which held a special retreat at Reynolda Park to outline the Spring schedule.

Long will students remember the melodious sounds which Dr. Paul Robinson produced from the many-thousanded piped organ.

THE MUSICAL MINDED

The Wake Forest College Chapel Choir composed of 85 selected voices under the capable direction of Dr. Thane McDonald has provided music for the Thursday Chapel services and several other programs throughout the year. The 18th annual Vesper Service, featuring G. F. Handel's "The Messah," was presented before the Christmas holidays. The choir was accompanied in this presentation by the College Little Symphony, James Good, pianist, and Dr. Paul Robinson, organist. Also for the first time this year, a choir was organized in summer school. They closed the summer session with a performance of Pergolesi's "Stabat Mater."

The College Touring Choir, composed of 38 voices chosen from the Chapel Choir, made its tenth annual tour during the spring vacation. They traveled as far north as Westminster, Maryland, performing for churches, schools, and various organizations. A highlight of the Choir's preliminary performances in and around Winston-Salem was an exchange concert with the Winston-Salem Teachers' College. The choir hopes to continue this exchange program as a tradition for succeeding Wake Forest choirs.

The music program was also enhanced this year by a male quartet, the "Singing Deacs," which made several appearances including a televised performance.

The Louring Choir spent their spring z nation spreading the Wake Forest family sprit among our northern neighbors in Maryland, Virginia, and Washington.

RETREAT HELD AT CAMP HANES

Before registration lines began to form for the opening of the fall semester on the new eampus, a hundred Wake Forest students were already getting a taste of 7-00 reveille and classes. The only difference in the "pre-school" event and the real thing was that the activities were entirely voluntary even to the sunrise hikes and self-imposed lectures.

The cause of all this excitement was the annual retreat sponsored by the Baptist Students in the college were invited to attend the conference held at Camp Hanes. Retreaters arrived at the camp located at the foot of Sauratown Mountain on September 5. Activities packed into each day ranged from charades and chatting to sermions and seminars.

They reaped from their four days' stay there a harvest of fellowship, inspiration, and information for the new school year.

Inspiring services were planned for pre-school retreaters before their plunge into a new year.

SOPHOMORES

With hearts steeped in past traditions and with eyes fixed on the new campus and new traditions, the sophomore class approached their second year at Wake Forest with mixed emotions. As the year rolled on, they found a deeper meaning to college life, as they learned to discard the superficial covering that had attracted them as freshmen. Most of all they learned that a college does not depend upon old or new buildings, upon magnolias or lack of magnolias, rather that it depends on one—the individual. Organizing plots to steal the old bell, working on the Talent Show, and taking part in every phase of campus life, the sophomores reached the halfway mark of their college careers.

Gibson, P. E. Staff

In charge of the best facilities in many years, Athletic Director Bill Gibson has worked diligently during the year in an effort to stimulate interest and participation in the sports program, which is so important to the College curriculum.

The Physical Education Department planned and sponsored the most successful intramural program in the history of the College, in addition to their classroom duties.

Wake Forest vs. Maryland

A sophomore halfback led the Maryland Terrapins on a 60 yard scoring drive in the first half to defeat the Deacons 6-0.

Except for the score, the Terrapins were out-passed, out-punted, out-run, and generally out-played by Wake Forest.

Barnes led the Deacons, with 161 yards rushing, to within the Maryland 13 yard line four times, but fate would not let them score.

Three fumbles were costly to the Deacons, stopping Wake drives at the Maryland 17 and 39 yard lines, and starting Maryland on their scoring drive.

Line play was the most exciting part of the game as the Deacons beat the heavier, overmanned Terps into the turf, and forced them to spend the afternoon on their end of the field.

Even in defeat the Wake Forest team made a fine showing.

Wake Forest vs. Clemson

The Clemson Ligers, with orange blossoms in their eyes, invaded Bowman Gray Stadium and carried away a 17-0 victory over Wake.

It was a bad afternoon for the Deacons, as they were only able to reach into enemy territory four times, and then they could get no closer than the Clemson 30 yard line.

Most of the game for the Deacs was spent in trying to keep the Tigers away from the Wake goal line. They seemed to be successful except in the second quarter when a long pass set up the first touchdown, and in the fourth period when a 61 yard drive set up the second score.

Coach Amen had nothing but praise for the Clemson team, saying that it was the best team that Wake had played.

Even though stopping the Wake team, Clemson was unable to stop Barnes as he racked up 73 yards rushing.

Wake Forest vs. North Carolina and N. C. State.

Dick Daniels and Charlie Carpenter combined to block a Carolina extra point attempt, the result of a Tar Heel third quarter touchdown. This TD came only after Wake had halted them successively on the 13 and 4 yard lines.

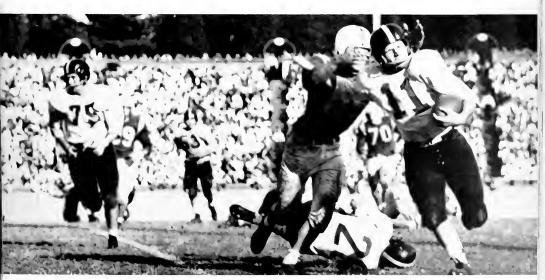

In the fourth period the Deacons began to roll, and led by Barnes, both as a hall carrier and a decoy for Dalrymple, they drove 96 yards for the score. The conversion was missed; the final score, 6-6.

Fourteen thousand Homecoming fans watched as Carpenter used Barnes as a decoy on two scoring plays which led to a 13-0 victory over N. C. State.

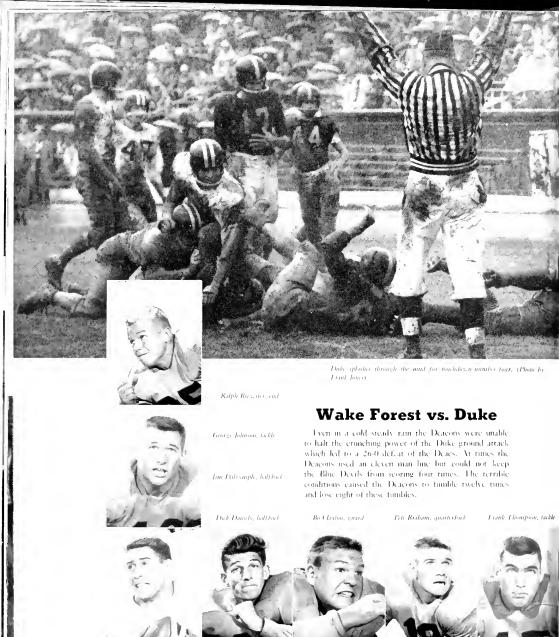

In the first period it was a faked off-tackle handoff to Bullet Bill and a 55 yard pass to Brewster for the score. Then in the second period it was another off-tackle fake to Barnes and a pitchout to Daniels which gave Wake their second touchdown of the game.

Barnes Makes Look First String All-American

Wake Forest's alumni were thrilled again this year as sports writers across the nation praised a Wake football star. "Just call him Bill Barnes, All-American," predicted one writer, and that is exactly what the blond fullback from Landis proved. His fame especially resounded for him when his home town honored him with "Bill Barnes Day."

He began by dashing 67 yards for a touchdown on the opening play of the season and went on to lead the A.C.C. in nearly every offensive department. His 1010 yards rushing was second in the nation. In the conference Barnes topped the list in rushing, total offense, scoring, punt returns, and kickoff returns.

Voted the "Outstanding Player of the Year" in North Carolina by the United Press, he was All-Conference, "Outstanding Player in the Region" for All-American for the Associated Press, first string on the Look Magazine All-American Squad, "Outstanding Player for the South" in the North-South All-Star football game in Miami, Flori!a, and co-captain of the Wake Forest squad.

In addition, Barnes was the second-round choice of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Professional Football League and appeared on the Perry Como television show.

Basketball in Coliseum

The new Memorial Colseum located on North Cherry Street about one quarter of a mile from the Wake Lorest campus served as the home playing floor for the Demon Deacons this year. The Colseum, which has a seating capacity of 8,690, for basketball games, was opened last year. The arena is equipped with ample dressing rooms and first-class facilities. MI 10 home games were played here during the year.

Deacs Rated Nationally

The Deacons began their rise to national prominence with the winning of their second consecutive Carrousel title during the Christmas vacation.

Immediately after this win, the Deacons returned to Winston-Salem and trounced nationally-ranked Alabama.

Then Wake invaded Raleigh and the famed Dixie Classic. In this, the most important holiday rournament in the nation, the Deacons defeated DePaul and gained a particularly sarisfying win in the semi-finals over N. C. State. The Deacs met the nation's No. 2 team in the finals, and lost to Carolina by a score of 63-55.

Wake swept through the North and returned home as they continued to move toward the top in the national ratings.

From Gore Field to Ernie Shore Field—Baseball

The 1956 Wake baseball team is an outstanding example of the fact that the hardest part of winning a national championship in baseball is winning the A.C.C. championship.

Except for the loss of one starter from the 1955 N.C.A.A. champions, the team was intact and was only able to compile a 7-5 Conference record while gaining a 13-5 overall record. All of the losses were at the hands of Conference foes.

The Deacons were able, however, to win their second successive Dixie Classic title by beating Loyola, N. C. State, and Michigan.

Heading up the pitching staff were Lowell Davis, Jick McGinley, and John Stokoe. Backing these were Buck Fiehter, Bill Walsh, and Bill Lovingood. Covering the infield were Frank McRae at first base, "Cocky" Moore and Jack Bryant at second base, and Bill Barnes at third base.

On the recieving end was the All-American eatcher Linwood Holt,

In the outfield were three experienced performers, Al Baker, Luther McKeel, and George Miller.

Leading the team in the all-important batting department were McRac with a .419 average, Miller with a .408 average, McKeel with a .318 average, and Barnes and Baker both hitting at .310.

Vith several returning vererans being helped by promising graduates of the freshman squad, the 1957 edition of the Deacons should again prove to be a championship contender.

Cross Country Shows Improvement

The Deacon cross-country team ended its season with the best record in the history of the sport here at Wake. The 2-7 record gave them sixth place in the Conference. The Deacs were able to beat South Carolina and Clemson, while losing very close meets (which could very well have gone either way) to Stare, Dirke, Virginia, and Richmond.

Senior Ciptain Ferrell, juniors Frazier, Keith, Williams, Bullard, Cobb, and sophomore Medlin led the team.

Wrestlers Have Better Year

For the first time this year the wrestling ream had the facilities needed to have home matches. The team took advantage of this by scheduling two matches here, against N. C. State and the University of Maryland.

Veterans from last year's team who were back this year were sophomore. Tom Carlton in the 127 pound class, who was undefeated during his freshman year and for the first four matches of this year, Lloyd Harrison in the 137 pound class, Bob Jones in the 157 pound class, and John Ashburn in the heavyweight class.

Track Men Perform Well Despite Lack of Facilities

Leading the 1956 Deacon track team was Jack Ladner, who set a new A.C.C. record in the javelin event with a heave of 206'  $71_2''$ , and who was undefeated during the season.

Other steady and outstanding performers were Jim Dalrymple, in the hurdles, Dick Daniels in the sprint series, Carroll Ferrell and Captain Bill Summerlin in the distance events.

Returning lettermen to the 1957 team will be Ladner, Dalrymple, Ferrell, Dick Frazier, and Bob Williams, all of whom will form the core of the thin clads.

Deac Golfers Top Contender

Golf, although a comparatively young sport at Wake, has made great strides in the last few years.

The 1956 golf team began their season finding themselves the holders of the A.C.C. championship. The team also was holding a streak of 16 triumphs in a row. They extended their winning streak to 25 hefore losing to U.N.C. This was the only loss of the year and gave the team an 11-1 record.

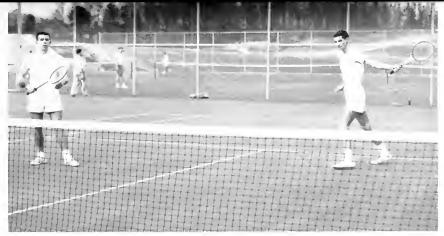

Gerring, Kerfoot, Turner, Wiechman, and Coach McKinney guided the team to second place in the Conference just behind U.N.C. With the returning lettermen and some experienced sophomores and juniors, the 1957 team is also expected to be a championship contender.

The 1956 tennis team will go down in the records as one of the most successful units in recent years. The Deaes closed out their season with a fine record of 6-6-1 in dual meets.

Standouts for the Deacons during the season were Al Griffin, Jasper Memory, Jr., Joe Burt, and Bob Garren. These four men represented Wake Forest in the A.C.C. tournament.

The team was coached by Harry Chaffin, a student in the Seminary. He predicted that the 1957 team would be even stronger with Burt and Garren, both lettermen, returning along with men from the 1956 freshman squad.

Men's Intramurals

The intrannural program at Wake Forest College is planned for the students. It is based on the fact that to receive the many benefits from sports there must be actual participation. As a result, a wide variety of team sports and individual sports are included to meet the interests of everyone. The number of teams and participants is increasing every season.

Women's Intramurals

Intramurals for women are sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association. The intramural program consists of tournaments in volleyball, baskeball, rennis, field bockey, softball, and swimming. Many girls develop good body co-ordination, better health, and posture by participation in these events. Also coeds learn recreational sports which can be carried over into later life through this program.

They sponsored the Miss Demon Deacon contest for the selection of the Homecoming Queen, the Old Gold and Black basketball pre-season game between the varsity and the freshmen, and the Old Gold and Black football game in the spring between the varsity and alumni.

For the first time Monogram Club members were able to play host in their own newly furnished club-room.

Training Future Officers

The Army R.O.T.C. has as its purpose the training of students for positions of leadership in the Army in time of national emergency. The successful completion of a four-year Army R.O.T.C. course leads to a commission as a second heutenant in the Army reserve. In the classroom, emphasis is placed on giving the prospective officer a general background knowledge of imilitary subjects activities essential to all of the Army's fifteen arms and services. Maximum effort is made to arouse the students' interest through the use of weapons, illustrations, training films, practical exercises, and models. Drill and I'vereise of Command facilitate development of those essential characteristics of leadership such as self-confidence, initiative, loyalty, and the ability to think clearly, make wise decisions, and inspire others to work for the success of any endeavor.

Clowning Deacons climbed from goal to goal encouraging the team to bring the pigskin over the line for that all-important T. D. May came in sinding on the old campus, and students thocked out-of-doors to see Hilda Manden crowned Magnolia Queen of 1956. The pageant held in honor of the coed royalty was one of reminiscence. Past Magnolia Queens were presented, and dances from their Festivals were performed on the sunny campus.

There was sadness as well as joy on that day. Never again would the old magnolia trees frame this court of beauty, music, and dance. Climaxing the day was the Magnolia Ball. Goeds and their escorts danced to dreamy music and watched the formal presentation of the day's royalty.

The pageant ended Wake Forest's magnolia week with its sidewalk art exhibit, hand concert, operetta, and the Shakespearean production of "The Merchant of Venice."

A scene from "The Dance of the Ugly Duckling" taken from the fairy tale by Hans Christian Andersen.

Torning the last Magnolia Court on the old campus were Trinette, Tyner, Vide, Braddock, Mauldin Queen, Highes Mind of Honor, Ascock, Perrs, McLamb, and Booth

FRESHMEN

Making Wake Forest College our school, instead of simply a school, was the primary project for the class of 1960. Much of the future of W.F.C. lies in the hands of this all-new class on the all-new campus. Theirs is the task of mellowing the newness into a spirit of loyalty and praise. Off to the proper start, they exhibited enthusiastic participation in the elections and selected a capable slate of leaders.

GREEKS RUSH

Fraterity sections, crowded with rushees and rushers and filled with smoke, were the settings for the open houses. While attempting to "snow" all potential fraterity men, the rushing groups produced much bull about the virtues of their chapters. The poor, gullbile rushees swallowed this and seemed impressed, but still all rushers had to "sweat" pledges until the last minute.

These anxious moments continued, and the outcome was uncertain until the last second when those who had been treated take kings were made pledges and treated accordingly. The climax of this period of hard work, known as rushing, had come, and pledge night featured both extreme happiness and disappointment. However, every fraternity got many of the boys it wanted as pledges.

IFC: NEW RULES

The Interfraterinty Council was faced with drawing up new rushing rules that would be suitable for the Greeks in their new territory. These rules were completed and accepted.

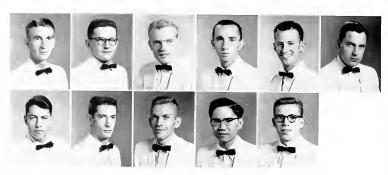

Fratermry men enjoyed the dances planned by the Council for Homecoming and Mid-Winters. Following the defeat of N. C. Stare, the Greeks danced to the melodics of Billy May's Band in the Coliseum. Mid-Winters featured Woody Herman and his Band, who provided rhythms for Friday and Saturday nights.

New York City's Waldorf Astoria was the site of the National LEC. Convention at which the Walke Forest representatives honored the Walke Forest Council by receiving the rank of third in the nation on the basis of activities for the past year. Now the local group is working hard in an effort to improve realationships among W. F. C.'s social featernities.

The Interfraterinty Council planned and sponsored the two big dance week ends,

Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity was founded on December 6, 1845, at Yale University as a sophomore society by three freshmen, Louis Manigault, Stephen Ormsly Rhea, and Horace Spangler Weiser. When the existence of Alpha Sigma Phi was announced to the Yale campus, the junior fraternities welcomed the new fraternity as an added link in the political chain they were forging in the scramble for college honors and men. But the rival Sophomore society was fearful of and antagonistic to Alpha Sigma Phi, for Kappa Sigma Theta had been the only sophomore society on the campus since 1838. The Beta Mu Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi came to Wake Forest College in 1932. In 1954 there were a total of seventy-eight chapters of Alpha Sigma Phi. Today the fraternity is the tenth oldest social order and is nineteenth in number of members among the fifty-nine fraternities of the National Interfraternity Conference, Alpha Sigma Phi has fifty-five active chapters and thirty-four alumni chapters geographically situated throughout the U. S. and the District of Columbia. At Wake Forest the chapter is a true brotherhood in which brothers and pledges participate to bring about an atmosphere of kindred spirit and social progress.

Brothers and pledges put much of their energy and talent into their attractive Homecoming decorations shown on this page, which won for them third place in fraternity competition. The Alpha Sigs always look forward to their annual Christmas party, which was a tremendous success this past holiday season. Another long awaited and frolicsome ball was the "Apache Party." Alpha Sigs enjoyed their partying throughout the year but also displayed their serious sincerity.

Since the historic year 1899, when a handful of students in New York City got together to form a "new" kind of organization—a 20th Century fraternity—Delta Sigma Phi has blossomed into one of Greekdom's most progressive, solid and respected brotherhoods.

Delta Sig members, now numbering in the thousands, have graduated from their "laboratories of leadership" and have gone out into all parts of the world and in all walks of life proudly wearing the diamond-shaped pin of the Sphinx.

The reactivation of Beta Lambda Chapter began during spring examinations in 1956. Two groups functioning as local fraterinties had decided to affiliate with a national fraternity, and Bill Collins, member of the old Chapter, interested them in Delta Sigma Phi. Collins with National Representative Ken Knopp laid the plans for reactivating the organization. Active rushing began during the examination period, and by the end of the summer 10 men had been initiated and 12 more had pledged. Since then the Chapter has grown to 34 members and 17 pledges. Jack Grose was named first president of the fraternity and has served for this school term.

The social life during Beta Lambda's first year sparkled. Numerous parties at the Chapter House gave that much needed impetus for academic pursuits. At the top of the list of socials was the Coronation Ball in Durham with Alpha Epsilon and the E.C.C. and High Point Colonies. Beta Lambda's Dream Girl, Dianne Rousseau, was sponsor for the Chapter.

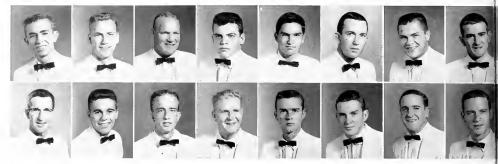

Delta Sigma Phi boasts many well-known alumni. Among these are Fritz Crisler, Ted Weems, and John Scott Trotter.

The results of the morning after the night before.

Washington and Lee University was the home for the first Kappa Alpha chapter, which was founded there in 1865. On January 8, 1881, five men organized Tau Chapter of Kappa Alpha Fraternity on the Wake Forest campus. The fraternity operated as a "subrosa" organization for many years because of a college regulation forbidding the existence of fraternities. Several times the fraternity was discovered and each time the members of Kappa Alpha were given the choice of surrendering the charter or leaving school, A series of rebirths, discoveries, and deaths followed for a period of forty-one years. On October 9, 1922, the day fraternity restrictions were removed by the college, a charter was re-granted to Tau Chapter. Kappa Alpha had sixteen members and was the only national chapter on the campus. The installation of the chapter was in the hands of Prof. R. B. White, Dr. Hubert Poteat, John H. Kerr, Jr., and Carroll W. Weathers, now Dean of the Wake Forest School of Law. The work of the first leaders in making Kappa Mpha a solid, closely-knit fraternity has always been an inspiration to all of its members.

The K.A.'s partied after football games and held various social affairs throughout the year. Along with Homeconing and Mid-Winters, the young men had a gala time at the Old South Ball. Not only have the K.A.'s of Tau Chapter been active, but also their national alumni have shown their merit.

Ten of Kappa Alpha's most prominent alumni are Billy Joe Patton, Dr. Hubert Poteat, Morgan Beatty, Pat Boone, J. Edgar Hoover, Randolph Scott, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Rev. James L. Duncan, and Gen. Frank Armstrong.

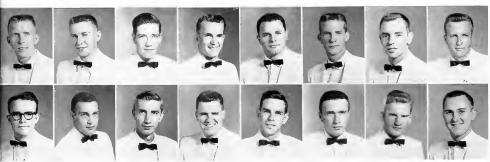

K.4 officers are: John Linegerger, I; Clifton Sneeden, III; Bob Hedrick, II.

In the year 1400, Kappa Sigma had its traditional founding by Emanual Chrysoloras at the University of Bologna in Italy. This society was organized for the purpose of protection against the mayor of Bologna and his bold robbers. Then in December 1869, George Miles Arnold, John Covert Boyd, William Grigsby McCormick, Frank Courtney Nicodemus, and Edmund Law Rogers established the first American chapter of Kappa Sigma. Collectively this group was known as the "Five Friends and Brothers," and their purpose for this American founding was, in the words of these early brothers, "to enjoy and increase the pleasures which are only to be obtained by the intercourse of congenial spirits." It was not until 1939 that a local fraternity on the old campus obtained a charter and became the Delta Omega Chapter of Kappa Sigma.

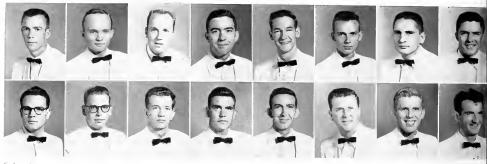

The K. Sigs are proud to boast such outstanding national alumni as Estes Kefauver; Johnny Mack Brown and Philip Carey, both well-known movie actors; song writer Hoagy Carmichael; Warren Austin, ex-representative to the United Nations; and Harold W. Tribble. Several brothers of the local chapter have held outstanding positions while taking part in the activities of the college. Worthy of mention are Brunson Salley, head cheerleader; Bruce McDaniel, president of ODK; Bill Starling, vice-president of the student body and president of Scabbard and Blade; and David Hughes, outstanding debater, chairman of the Men's Honor Council, and president of the International Relations Club. Memorable affairs of the past social life to be remembered are the gangster ball, a hillbilly party, a party for under-privileged children, and many week end dances.

On the campus of Boston University in 1909, three law students founded the first chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha. In the 46 year history of the fraternity, it has grown until it has over 150 chapters. Lambda Chi merged with another top-ranking national fraternity, Theta Kappa Nu. General headquarters for the brotherhood was established in Indianapolis. Indiana. In 1924, a chapter of Theta Kappa Nu was founded on the campus at Wake Forest, North Carolina. As the chapter grew, the upper echelon of Theta Kappa Nu and Lambda Chi Alpha began plans for uniting. The Wake Forest chapter officially became Thera Tau Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha in September of 1939. At the present, Lambda Chi Alpha, on a national scale, is composed of fifteen geographical divisions, ninety-two alumni associations, and one hundred and sixteen contact secretaries. It is the hope of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity to build, in the brothers and pledges, a spirit of brotherhood, a sense of responsibility, and a feeling of co-operation, as well as providing a basis for social activities.

Numerous social activities were planned by Fred Turnage, who was elected president in January. Highlights of the '56-'57 social year were Homecoming; Mid-Winters; the White Rose Ball, held in observance of Founders' Day, March 22; and the Inter-Zeta, a dance that found Wake Forest Lambda Chi's joining with brothers and pledges from Duke, U. N. C., N. C. State, and High Point at the Ocean Forest Hotel, Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Harry S. Truman, Al Capp, Frankie Laine, and Rev. Lee Tuttle are all noteworthy and well-known alumni of the national fraternity.

The six Founders of Pi Kappa Alpha had fresh in their minds the memories of the Civil War when they established their chapter in 1868. Their problems were in some measure similar to those of the rest of the South in its woes of reconstruction. Life at the University of Virginia at that time was simple and devoid of many things now considered collegiate; friendships were peculiarly warm and ideals were keenly cherished. As one of the Founders has stated, they little imagined the great oak tree that was to grow from their planting, but they planted well and deeply in the subsoil of friendship and idealism. Later when the local Pika chapter was granted a charter from the national office to a group at Wake Forest. it became the Gamma Phi Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha. Let us review some of the activities of the local chapter for the past year.

Pika parties started late but ended with many fine affairs, climaxed by the Dream Girl Ball, Florida's gift to the Gamma Phi Chapter, Mrs. Marianne Whedhee, proved to be a true dream girl. Jac ReVille attended the national convention, and Osear Kafer went to the LF.C. national convention. All brothers enjoyed the year under the capable advice of their Alumnus Counselor, Dr. C. B. Farp.

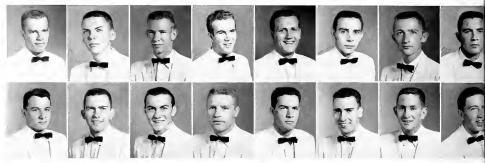

Pi Kappa Alpha's alumni of national interest include Senators John Sparkman from Alahama and Wayne Morse from Oregon; General Courtney Hodges, retired, Commanding General of the First Army 1944-1949; George Russell, Treasurer of General Motors; John D. Sheaffer, Vice-President of Sheaffer Pen Company; Fess Parker, movie star; and Tommy Byrne, New York Yankees baseball player.

The founding of Sigma Chi Fraternity occurred at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, on June 28, 1855. Founders of that chapter were Thomas Cowan Bell, James Parks Caldwell, Daniel William Cooper, Benjamin Piatt Runkle, Isaac M. Jordan, Franklin Howard Scobey, and William Lewis Lockwood, The first six of these men, disgusted by the prevalent fraternity policy under which a chapter dictated the choice and vote of its members in campus elections, broke away and joined Lockwood in a constructive protest against artificiality, sham, and pretense in fraternity programs. The local founding of the Delta Nu Chapter was in November 1948. The petitioning group was known first as the Esquire Club and then Zeta Chi. Today the brothers are proud of their national association and enjoy an active campus life.

The social season of the year opened in the new Sigma Chi house with dances and open houses and was highlighted by the "Sewers of Paris" Homecoming party, "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" was the feature of serenades for girls at Wake Forest, Salem, W. C., High Point, and the N. C. Baptist Hospital. Sweetheart Carol Jennette reigned over the annual Sweetheart Ball at the Robert F. Lee Horel. On eampus, athletes of the chapter won their third consecutive fraternity league football championship and went on to take the all-campus intramural football crown.

Sigma Chi has prominent men in athletics, entertainment, public office, literature, business, and education. Some of these widely known men are John Wayne, Tony Trabert, Dickie Hemric, Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy, Grover Cleveland, Booth Tarkington, and L. G. Balfour.

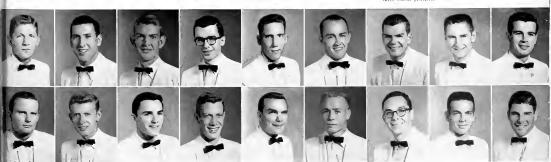

Sigma Chi officers are: Iay Conway, Questor: Marvin Gray, Magister; George Beck, Pro-Consul; Major Harding, Annotator; Bob Lawing, Consul.

In the year 1901 a group of twelve young men at the University of Richmond handed together to form a fraternal organization known as the Saturday Night Club. A short time later the name of this group was changed to Sigma Phi I'psilon.

Since that time Sig I'p alumni have included Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post; Ted Mack, IV personality, Woody Herman, orchestra leader; and Governor Theodore R, McKeldin of Maryland.

Highlights of the year for the Zeta Chapter were Sweetheart Dance, and the annual Carolina's Sig 1 p Ball. Ann Bridges, coed, was elected queen of last year's Ball.

Sigma Pi's greet future pledges after receiving bids.

This year marks the sixtieth anniversary of Sigma Pi, which was founded at Vincennes University in Vincennes, Indiana. Expansion as a national began in 1908 when chapters from Illinois and Ohio State merged with the chapter at Vincennes to embark the young fraternity on its national program, Today, Sigma Pi has fifty-two active chapters covering areas mainly on the west coast of California, the midwest, and northeastern sections of the country. However, with eleven chapters in the southeast, Sigma Pi is on the move to activate more chapters in this section of the country. At present, three schools in the Atlantic Coast Conference have Sigma Pi Chapters: Maryland, N. C. State, and Wake Forest. The Alpha-Nu Chapter of Wake Forest was founded in 1928 and chartered as Delta Sigma Chi. The chapter was reactivated on May 12, 1940, as Alpha-Nu.

Sigma Pi Fraternity ranks high among all national fraternities in the United States, and Alpha-Nu Chapter has placed number three in efficiency out of fifty-two chapters. All brothers have enjoyed a successful first year here on the new Wake Forest campus, with credit due to capable officer leadership and co-operation by all. The year was begun with complete new furnishings for the chapter room, office, and lounge, and some new furnishings for the den; a good report from Brothers Bob Davis and Jerry Drum, who attended Sigma Pi Convocation in Pasadena, California; so many alumni being seen during Homecoming, Mrs. Jo Holcomb elected fraternity sweetheart; the Orchid Ball at the El-Camrey Room; the annual softball game with Rho Chapter at N. C. State; and the substitute party at the "rocks."

Sigma Pt officers are: George Newborne, House Manager; Ray McLaurin, 4th Counsellor; Ronny McLaurin, 3rd Counsellor; George Mast, 2nd Counsellor; Steve Strawn, 1st Counsellor; Robert Davis, Sage; Richard Johnson, Herald.

The Gamma Omicron Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity was founded on May 15, 1948, in the lower Barracks Quadrangle at Wake Forest, N. C. Active in the founding of Gamma Omicron were Dr. Hubert M. Potcat, now Professor Emeritus of Wake Forest College, and the Honorable Thad Eure. As of January 1, 1957, there were 32 actives in Gamma Omicron and 14 pledges. The 13 seniors leave the responsibility of carrying on their noble traditions and also their social life to the lower classmen.

Much socializing is done by the brothers of Theta Chi in every realm. The fall semester was highlighted by the formal rushing smoker early in the year and especially by the "Sword and Serpent Ball" which was held on the roof of the Robert F. Lee Hotel during Homecoming week-end. Numerous parties in the chapter room and other outings led the brothers to Christmas and the annual stag party, when gifts were exchanged. The outstanding feature of the spring term was the annual "Dream Girl Ball" where Gamma Omieron's dream girl was selected. The entire year was filled with screnades, parties, pienics, open houses, and other events which were enjoyed by everyone.

Distinguished past members of Theta Chi across the nation are Thad Eure, North Carolina Secretary of State; Sammy Kaye; Willard Waterman, "The Great Gildersleeve"; John Cecil Holm, playwright and actor; Robert M. Fuoss, executive editor of the Saturday Exening Post; Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of the largest chemical industry in the world; John Sloan Dickey, president of Dartmouth University; and Thor Olson, former American and world middleweight wrestling champion.

All it takes is great "Concentration."

Graduation- often thought of as an end but in actuality-a beginning.

Graduating semors form their final line.

Graduation

Friends and families converged upon the spring-green campus set amidst the rolling hills of Forsyth County to witness the culmination of four years of work, worry, and play for the graduating class of 1957. For many, their graduation is a time of sorrow, to others a joy, but to all it is an achievement, a realized goal, a triumph. Graduating seniors from Wake Forest in previous years have gone on to become outstanding leaders in our nation as well as in North Carolina. Every indication is that the seniors of '57 will carry on and even surpass this tradition. Only the setting for this graduation is different from those in past years. The proud spire of the new chapel towers over the academically robed procession as it winds past the stately columns and down the long aisle to the thundering strains of the chapel organ. Many of these seniors are already seeing beyond the walls of the chapel and visualizing what lies ahead for them--some are planning weddings; others, careers; still others will soon be serving in the military services. The ceremony over, the members of the first graduating class on the new campus emerge as new alumni and alumnae of Wake Forest College.

The Last Graduation From the Old Campus.

Hank Walker — Courtest Life Magazine Copr 1956 Time Inc And so ends . . .

August 12, 1956, saw two heads lent ever scattered lay-our sheets, hands busy with rulers and crasers, two minds trying to visualize the events which would take place at Wake Forest in its new home. This was the beginning of the 1957 Howler, But our foresight didn't predict that our new surroundings would bring about so many changes. Staff members worked diligently producing new lay-outs, cutting copy and fighting toward our goals—putting out a good book, and getting it out on time (the yearly slogan of all year book staffs). We sincerely hope that the students will be proud of their 1957 Howler—a book which is symbolic of the beginning of a new chapter in the history of Wake Forest College.

Our thanks and appreciation go to those who have rendered valuable services to the production of the book. Mr. William Oliver Smith and Mr. Tommy Graham of Edwards and Broughton Company for their assistance and co-operation in printing the book; Miss Doris Leeper and Mr. Walter Dargan of the Southern Photo Process Engraving Company for their advice concerning layout and production problems; Mr. A. F. Smith of Smith Studio for the portrait photography; Dr. E. G. Wilson, our adviser, who showed a special interest in its production; and Mr. Irving Grigg, his wife, and Larry Austin of Grigg Studio for their co-operation, interest, and time spent, in making the photographs. Others who have contributed to the book are: Frank Jones, of the Jonanal and Sentinel, whose pictures appear throughout the book; Worth Copeland, bursar; Eugene Olive, who gave the color plates for the pictures appearing on pages 2 and 24, also from the camera of Mr. Grigg; Russell Brantley and Marvin Francis for statistics and pictures; Dottie Braddock of the Student, who wrote the foreword; Mrs. E. B. Earnshaw, who wrote the poem on page 6; and Coppedge Studios, who made the pictures for the members of the Magnolia Court.

The fifty-fifth volume of the HOWLER was edited primarily on a table 17<sup>1</sup><sub>2</sub> inches by 9 feet, a good, hardwood desk, and an equally hard floor. The printing was done by the Edwards and Broughton Company of Raleigh. Body copy is set in 10 on 12 point Janson, Captions are in 8 on 10 point Janson italies. Heads are 18 and 36 point Bodoni, and 14 and 24 point Stymie are used in the athletic section. A total of 1,079 students, including fractrities and law, were photographed for the 1957 Howler. In addition to the portraits the book contains 448 other pictures, all of which were engraved by Southern Photo Process Engraving Company of Atlanta. The natural light photos appearing in the football section are the work of Irving Grigg and his 35mm camera. The black Cordova grain cover, embossed with a two-tone color design, was manufactured by Kingscraft, Inc., of Kingsport, Tennessee.

The editors regret that some important events of this year will not appear in the book, but in order for the HOWLER to come out on time, the line had to be drawn somewhere. Such things as the College Theater's outstanding production of "The Pajama Game" (a sellout for ten performances); the Military Ball; and the Preaching Mission headed by Dr. Harold Cooke Phillips of Cleveland, Ohio, would have added to the book.

Without the hard work put forth hy outstanding staff members the '57 Howeer would not have been possible. lane Lewis deserves credit for long hours of beating out many pages of copy on borrowed typewriters and proofing it before sending it to the printers. Barbara Howell gets a well earned vote of thanks for her work in contacting the clubs and individuals and getting them together for their pictures, B. J. Upchurch and Ann Cornwell also served very well in this capacity. Thanks to Beth Scott for the many hours spent at her typewriter working on senior activities and many other pieces of copy. Gloria Flippin worked hand in hand with the co-editors (one in particular). She gave unselfishly of her time, talent, and energy to all phases of Howler production. A special, thank you. We are grateful to Dave Welton for one of the finest jobs ever done by a business manager of the HOWLER. And to all who had a part, thanks.
